with the same energy. This can be said especially of the Pittsburg force sent out by the various papers. Over fifty reporters from Pittsburg were in Homestead two hours after the sun rose on Wednesday morning, and the number has not decreased since. Few other cities had representative on the grounds until the follow-ing day, and the Pittsburg men had ob-tained the cream of news. All day yester-day and the night previous correspond-ents of the dailies of the big cities flooded the place.

The newspaper men were quartered at the Eureka and Amity hotels, but few en-joyed repose. They had the employes posted to arouse them in case of alarm, and when they did retire the alarms generally came. To-day every newspaper in the large cities of the country has one or more representatives here. Some have as high as five reporters and an artist.

The telegraph service did a great deal toward giving the public the latest news. The Western Union had five wires in use, with the best men available at the keys. They were in temporary quarters in O'Brien's cafe, on Sixth avenue. The Postal occupied a large room on Eighth avenue, in the same building with the Amalgamated Association headquarters. They had only two wires until yesterday morning, when two more instru-ments were connected with them. The men at both offices worked double time and did not allow copy to pile up on them even at the most exciting time. On Wednesday, the day of the battle, the Western Union sent out between 90,000 and 100,000 words. while the Postal, with two men, sent out 50,000 words.

Other Carnegie Workmen May Strike. PITTSBURG. July 10 .- A meeting of the members of the Amalgamated Association employed in the mills of the Carnegie Steel Company was held to-day in this city to consider the situation at Homestead. A committee of five was appointed to call on Mr. H. C. Frick, to intercede for the striking men, and endeavor to effect a settlement. It is said that should the efforts of this committee prove fruitless, the workmen will consider the advisability of striking in the various other Carnegie mills. Secretary Lovejoy, of the Carnegie Steel Company, said to-night: "I do not believe that the men at the Union mills will strike. They are all old employes, and, while they might enter a protest, I do not think they will take any other steps. We are willing to deal with the Amalgamated Association to our city mills. We have no chiestion to in our city mills. We have no objection to the organization except at Homestead. What will be done when the committee's request is presented to Mr. Frick I do not know. Whatever it may be, it will rest entirely Burial of the First Pinkerton Shot. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

WABASH, Ind., July 10 .- J. W. Kline, the Pinkerton detective, who was killed at the Homestead riot, was buried here this afternoon. His remains were received Saturday morning, having been first sent to Chicago and then brought here by a member of the Pinkerton force. The funeral was from the home of Kline's foster parents. Mr. and Mrs. Talmage, who are wealthy. The sermon was conducted by Rev. Lamport, of the Methodist Church, after which the remains were placed in the family vault. Kline was the first of the Pinkerton men to step from the boat at Homestead, and was the first man shot.

No More Pinkertons.

PITTSBURG, July 10 .- Mayor Gourley, of this city, accompanied by Chief Brown, of the Department of Public Safety, held a long conference yesterday with Mr. H. C. Frick, chairman of the Carnegie Steel Company. The purpose of this meeting was not made public until to-day. Mr. Frick was informed by the city officials that should be bring any more Pinkerton or other armed men to this city, either inta body or singly, they would be immediately arrested, held for trial and their weapons seized. It is said that Mr. Frick told the Mayor that it was not his intention to bring more Pinkertons here.

The Assault on the Little Bill. PITTSBURG, July 10.-When the Carnegie Steel Company goes before the congressional committee investigating the riot at their works at Homestead, they will endeavor to make the assault on the Little Bill an offense against the government of the United States. They assert that the boat towing the barges carried the American flag, and is engaged in the United States service in towing various government barges. She was on a navigable stream at the time of the fight. The object of this move on the part of the steel company is not known, unless it be to get United States troops ordered to the scene of the

Has No Faith in an Investigation. PHILADELPHIA, Pa., July 10 .- John M. Hayes, general treasurer of the Knights of Labor, was interviewed by a Press correspondent to-night, and among other things declared that he had little faith in an investigation by Congress accomplishing any good in the Homestead lock-out. "If Congress wants to do anything for the workingmen." he said, "let it pass the Watson bill, forbidding the emyloyment of P nkerton or similar organizations."

Signed the scale. PITTSBURG, July 10 .- The Moorhead Mc-Clean company signed the Amalgamated scale late Saturday night. About three thousand men will go to work at that place to-morrow morning. HEBREW RITES ABOLISHED.

Proselytes Need No Longer Fear the Initiatory Ceremonies-Cremation Not Permitted.

NEW YORK. July 10 .- The conference of Jewish rabbis which began here on Thursday was brought to a close to-day. Midwinter meeting was fixed for Dec. 24 at Washington. It was also decided to hold the next annual meeting in Chicago, during the exposition, July 1, 1893. The customary initiatory rites for proselytes was abolished by a vote of 28 to 6. It was decided on a unanimous vote not to permit adoption of cremation in the Jewish church. If an American rabbi be called upon to celebrate funeral rites, he shall object to cremation on the ground that the genius of the Jewish religion is opposed to it. Rev. Dr. Calish offered a resolution protesting against religious legislation on the grounds that it is contrary to the Constrituion of the United States. It was also resolved that the Jews of America celebrate the four-hundredth anniversary of the discovery of America by endowing a chair at Cincinnati in the Hebrew Union Seminary of Jewish history and literature, to be known as the Leibman Adler chair. Rev. Dr. Fi. Berkowitz, of Kansas City, was elected president; Rev. Dr. R. G. Grossman, of New York, vice-president; Rev. Charles Levi, of Cincinnati, recording secretary. The concluding meeting was held in the evening, when it took the form of a memorial service to Rabbi Leibman Adler, late of Chicago, and the deceased rabbi, Dr. M. Solomen, of Appleton, Wis. Rev. Dr. Wise, president of the convention, delivered a farewell address, thanking New.

HURLED THROUGH THE DOOR.

Explesion of Gasoline in a Store That Injured a Dozen Customers and Clerks

PEORIA, Ill., July 10.-The grocery store of George Wilms, located at the corner of Adams and South streets, was the scene of a terrific explosion last night, in which a dozen persons were injured, two of whom may die. The building, was well filled with customers, when, without warning. there was an explosion of several barrels of gasoline stored in the cellar. Every one in the store at the time was thrown down, and some of them rendered unconscious by the force of the explosion. Joseph Rising was hurled through a glass door, and his throat and breast cut in a shocking man-ner. Mrs. Davis, who was standing in the center of the place, was thrown out of the front door, and her injuries are considered fatal. Two of the clerks were rendered unconscious, and were rescued from the burning building by the firemen. The flames spread with great rapidity, and there was the utmost difficulty in getting all the injured people from the building in time to save their lives. The financial loss is small. What caused the explosion has not been ascertained.

ALLEGED CLERICAL INTIMIDATION.

Irish Priests Charged with Threatening Voters Who Opposed Anti-Parnellites.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. DUBLIN. July 10 .- The Parnellites propose to petition Parliament against the seating of William O'Brien and Timothy Healy as members for the city of Cork on the ground of clerical intimidation in the elections. They claim to have evidence that the priests threatened voters with denial of the sacrament and other penalties in case they should vote for the Parnellites candidates, and that in one instance a young man was told that he could not be married to the girl of his choice, in church, at least, if he voted for the nominee to whom the church was opposed. The feeling in both Cork and Dublin is very bitter between the factions, and only the presence on duty of strong bodies of police prevent desperate encounters. As it is rows more or less serious are of frequent occurrence.

The anti-Parnellites are already discussing the course to be pursued in the event of their assistance being necessary to give Mr. Gladstene a majority in Parliament. The Hon. Edward Blake, of Canada, will probably be recommended for a Cabinet appointment. Timothy Healy has been mentioned for the office of Chief Secretary for Ireland, but the suggestion receives no serious countenance. In the event of Mr. Gladstone's success the plan of campaign will at once be resumed.

Mount Etna Still Spouting Lava. CATANIA, July 10 .- The eruption of Mount Etua assumed alarming proportions during the night. Huge quantities of lava have been thrown out of the volcano, and have formed a double stream, which is advancing rapidly towards Nicolosi and Bel Passo. The lava is already within six kilometers of Nicolosi. Great damage has been done to the surrounding country. A severe earthquake was felt in the immediate vicinity of the vol-cano during to-night. To-day the popu-lace of Nicolosi assembled outside the cathedral and knelt on the ground in prayer, being afraid to enter on account of the continuous shocks and subterranean rumbles, which are like the noise of a storm. Vessel Pierced by a Projectile. NEW YORK, July 9.—The three-masted schooner Harry R. Tilden, commanded by Captain Harris, bound to Philadelphia, from this port, in ballast, was sunk three miles off Sandy Hook this

Hook. On the schooner at the time were six men and Captain Harris. The men were all rescued by a steam launch belongand late in the evening landed at the docks of the Erie railway in Jersey City. Capt. Frank Heath, of the United States army, who is in charge of the government proving grounds at Sandy Hook, made a statement relative to the sinking of the schooner Tilden when he landed at Governor's island from the tug-boat General Wood, at half past 6 this evening. He

"As I am in charge of the proving grounds at Sandy Hook, belonging to the United States government, my duty takes me there almost every day. This afternoon, the day being fair, I determined to make velocity tests, using the big teninch breech-loading gun recently delivered at the proving grounds, and which is mounted on one of the new disappearing guncarriages made by the South Boston Pneumatic Manufacturing Company. In making velocity tests we have set up in front of the gun two wire nets. each of which is connected by an electric wire to an indicator that clearly registers the time when the electric circuit is broken by the shot passing through the nets. The first net is set up 150 feet from the muzzle of the gan, the second the same from the first. In making velocity tests with the big guns it is invariably the rule to fire them as nearly as possible in a horizontal position. Between 1 and 2 o'clock we prepared to fire the first shot. The line of fire was due southeast, and at the time the Scotland light ship could be nearly distinguished. There were several sailing vessels in the offing, all of which were off the line of fire as the gun was trained. To make doubly sure there are no vessels near the line of fire I have a man detailed to note the position at sea of all the passing vessels. I have much to take up my attention, and for that reason cannot watch each and every passing vessel. Before ordering a shot fired look myself at the horizon, and at the same time receive the reshot was fired at 1:50 o'clock, and, passing through the nets, no other thought was given as to where it disappeared. "At 2 o'clock the gun was ready for a second shot. The elevation was the same as in the first shot. The order was given to fire, and again the projectile passed through both nets and went to sea. This was the shot that hit the Tilden, though at the time we did not see her, paying little attention as to where the shot went after passing through the nets. Subsequently a third was fired, all of the three being for velocity and not to determine the range of the gun. No one at the proving grounds knew one of the vessels out at sea had been hit, and not until the steam launch of Mr. Knapp came steaming in, having in tow two of the life-boats of the schooner, did we know of the Captain Heath was then asked as to how he could explain why, if the Tilden was not in the direct line of fire, it was possible for her to be hit. His answer was: "I have taken my observations and tri-augulated the position of the Til-den when she was hit, but as yet I have not worked them out. This I will say, however: From all that I know the shot after passing through the second net struck one of the sand-dunes down the coast and was deflocted to the right, striking the stern of the Tilden. From my observantions, I am positive that the ve-sel at the time was at east three-fourths of a mile to the right of the line of fire.

"I shall most certainly make a report of the matter," said the captain in reply to the query as to what he proposed to do." "In the meantime, captain, will you still continue to test your guns to the danger of life, and ifrespective of shots being deflected on the sand dnnes?" was asked. "Why should I not?" was the reply.

Dr. Boynton said that after due consideration it had been decided to select Cleveland for the convention of 1894. Loud cheering followed, and the whole Cleveland contingent started up their rally song-"Cleveland '94"-com-posed by Miss Jessie H. Brown, to the tune of "Bringing in the Sheaves." Denver and San Francisco delegates joined in the chorus. The meeting was then concluded by aduct entitled "We Shall Meet Beyond the River Bye and Bye," by Mr. Sankey and Mr. Stebbins, with echo by the choir of five hundred, and from different parts of

Mr. Geiger, of Philadelphia, seconded the resolution, and it was carried by a large majority, who were in favor of disregarding the advice of the board of trustees. Dr. Grese, of the United Society, advised the meeting not to commit itself officially.

Danger from Fire at Homestead. HOMESTRAD, Pa., July 9.—Should fire break out in Homestead, and that is not unlikely, as a result of further trouble, the town will be practically at the mercy of the flames. Yesterday the startling discovery was made that the reservoir basin by which Homestead is supplied with water had sprung a leak, and already three feet of water had been lost. The basin is situated on a hill above the town. Into it the water is pumped by machinery, and those in charge aim to keep tifteen feet always at hand. Since the leak started the supply has been reduced to eleven feet of water and strenuous efforts are being made to discover the leak. At the same time the pumps are put to their full working power in the hope of maintaining a supply sufficient to cope with an emergency, and the chief of the fire department has taken other precautions to prevent disaster from flames. He has contracted for 2,500 feet of hose in addition to the amount now at his command, and this will be distributed-at points where it may be used to the best advantage.

It is reasonable to suppose that a further attempt to place Pinkerton men in the works would result in incendiarism. A mob of men absolutely beyond the control of their leaders and with the belief in their minds that hired assassins had come to take bread from the mouths of their wives and children would obey no orders except those born of passion and impulse. If the Pinkertons became possessed of the idle mill a suggestion that the mill be fired would spread like wildfire, and little short of a miracle would prevent the impulse of the moment from being carried out. Oil and other inflammable material would be near at hand, and the design once sug-gested could be carried out in short order. It is obvious that the Homestead fire de partment occupies an important and responsible position.

The almost general belief that Pinkerton men are in Homestead engaged in obtaining information for the Carnegie company is well expressed in the columns of a local paper in the following manner: "There seems to be no doubt but that there are a few Pinkerton men in town who are employed in getting a list of the wounded and others who were active participants in the riot. As a word of warning, it behooves our people to be quiet on the subject, and give them no opportunity to find the objects of their search. In talking of the matter let no names be mentioned, and their errand will then be fruitless."

The mystery surrounding the disappearance of some of the Pinkerton men has not been cleared. It is not believed that the men seen to jump or fall overboard from meeting lasted nearly an hour, and after it | the burning barges managed to escape was over the delegates marched out sing- | alive, although it is said that a large number of the detectives deserted the barges as they passed Lock No. 1, and that others lost themselves in the crowd and got away after the surrender. The bodies of two unknown men have been found in the Monongahela river at Pittsburg within the last twenty-four hours, and many here be-of the Monongahela. Archbishop Ireland and Father McGlynn, New York, July 9.-A dramatic incident, and one which may create new complications in the religious controversy already existing between the two archbishops of the Roman Catholic Church, Archbishops Corrigan and Ireland, occurred at the Fifth-avenue Hotel to-night to-night. The latter dignitary, just returned from Rome, his mission there crowned with success, granted an audience to Rev. Dr. McGlynn, the excommunicated priest, formerly the pastor of St. Stephen's church, in this city. The meeting was an affecting one. The Archbishop extended both hands and cordially greeted his friend and former brother priest. Dr. McGlynn's manner was agitated and his eyes filled with tears at this unexpected public greeting. He afterwards remained closeted with the Arch-bishop several hours. This was the first time since his relations with the mother church were severed that he has been abie to get the ear of one whom he could hope to make intercession for him at the Vati-

Two Strikers Shot by a Non-Unionist. Bakersfield, Cal., June 9 .- Two trainmen, Edward Benson and George Rogers, said to be leaders of the striking Southern Pacific trainmen, were shot this morning, just as the passenger train was leaving the yard for San Francisco, by a non-union man named Ackley, who did not go out with the strikers. They have been threatening vengeance on him ever since. Ack-ley came to Bakersfield last night as a brakeman on the train, and was leaving this morning, when Benson and Rogers jumped aboard and got into an altercation with Ackley. Ackley shot Rogers twice in the body and Benson through both arms. it is thought that Rogers's wounds are fatal. Ackley jumped off the train and took the brush. The constables and a number of deputy sheriffs are now hunting him. The Wounded Pinkertons. PITTSBURG, July 9.—Thirteen of the Pinkerton men are still lying in the West Pennsylvania Hospital, and represent the more seriously injured. The sixteen that left last night for their homes, eleven going east and five west, had fairly recovered, and were able to take care of themselves. All of those remaining at the hospitaleare suffering from gun-shot wounds and, with one exception, are in a fair way to recover. The most serious case is that of E. A. Covert, of Brooklyn, who is suffering from builet wounds in the left arm and thigh. The latter wound will probably prove fatal. The bullet cannot be located. The attending physicians fear a relapse within short time. Special time has been set for the discharge of the inmates from the hospital, and each man will be sent home as soon as the staff recommends his dismissal.

Proofs Against Him.

Philadelphia Press. Senator Vest quoted one or two short series of prices in his recent speech as proof that prices had been advanced under the McKinley tariff. He will find it rather difficult to face the overwhelming proof that the average of prices is lower now than when the McKinley tariff was passed. Carpets was one article which was to advance in value; and standard grades of carpets, according to the quotations and figures of the Dry Goods Economist, a paper with free-trade leanings, were lower in January, 1892, than in January, 1890.
